Some general statements about land use and development in Iowa County:

- All 14 towns are under the jurisdiction of county zoning.
- County zoning does not apply within any city or village.
- Virtually any type of construction and development within the unincorporated area of the county requires a county permit through this office.
- Towns may have town restrictions, policies and ordinances that are stricter than the county. These must be met, however, it is best to begin the proposal with this office.
- The most common zoning classification in the county is the A-1 Agricultural district. This district requires a minimum 40-acre lot size, meaning a land division creating a lost less than 40 acres in area requires rezoning to another district.
- Please don’t hesitate to contact this office with any questions!
