On 5/25/2015 at approximately 0640 hours, Officers responded to 316 Monroe Street to a report of loud noise. When Officers arrived they could hear loud music coming from the residence and people inside yelling and arguing. Officers contacted the caller Corrine Graham, age 63, in front of the residence. Ms. Graham was having a verbal argument with her adult son and his girlfriend. No criminal act had been committed and Officers cleared from the call.

At approximately 0800 hours, Officers responded back to the residence to a report of a domestic dispute involving a firearm. Responding officers found the subject, identified as Ms. Graham, barricaded in the main bedroom of the residence. The investigation revealed that Ms. Graham allegedly brandished a handgun towards her son and another male during an argument prior to Police arrival. Officers took up positions both inside and outside the residence and additional Officers were called to the scene. Officers evacuated residents from surrounding homes for safety. A member of the department attempted to negotiate with the suspect, but the attempts were unsuccessful. After approximately three and a half hours, Ms. Graham attempted to exit the residence through a side door connected to the main bedroom and was taken into custody. Officers served a search warrant on the residence and located the firearm in the main bedroom.

Ms. Graham was transported to the Ketchikan Correctional Center where she was charged with one count of Assault in the Third Degree-Domestic Violence and held without bail.
