

What Can The Community Do?

- Prevent curiosity firesetting in the first place: provide fire safety education for children and youth throughout the year.
- Organize a coordinated, community-based, screening/intervention program.
- Identify and provide for the child's and family's needs (fire safety education, counseling, social services, etc.) using community resources.
- Assist parents/caregivers, and all who work with children, to better understand children's involvement with fire (when and where to go for help).

a note to parents and caregivers

- Teach young children that fire and fire tools are for grown-ups to use.
- Keep matches and lighters out of reach, in high, ideally locked, cabinets.
- Supervise young children.
- Ask young children to tell you when they find matches and lighters, and put them away.
- Teach older children proper techniques in using fire and fire tools - how to strike a match safely or light a candle with supervision.
- Praise your child for practicing responsible behavior and showing respect for fire.
- Set a good example: use matches, lighters, and fire carefully. Keep your home fire safe.

about fire & fire safety

- Fire is dangerous and can be deadly.
- Even small fires spread quickly.
- Never leave the stove or a burning candle unattended.
- Install and maintain smoke alarms for early warning.
- Plan and practice a home fire escape drill.
- Inspect your home often for fire hazards.

Children and Fire

A Growing Concern...

FEMA

fire is child fire play and setting a problem?

Fires set by young children in the U.S. annually result in:¹

- 67,500 fires
- 230 deaths
- 1,800 injuries
- $235 million in property damage

arson is juvenile a problem?

The FBI Crime Index reports that juvenile and adult arson cause an annual average of 560,000 fires, 750 deaths, 3,700 injuries, and $1.5 billion in property loss.

- 55% of all arson arrests in the U.S. are children under 18.
- Nearly half of these are age 15 and under.
- 6.8% are under the age of 10.
- The crime of arson has the highest rate of juvenile involvement.

The first step in solving the problem is to understand better which children set fires and why they do it.

Curiosity/Experimental

- Boys and girls ages 2 to 10 (sometimes younger)
- Lack understanding of the destructive potential of fire
- Ready access to lighters, matches, or open flame
- Unsupervised

Troubled Firesetters

- Mostly boys of all ages
- Have set two or more fires
- Use fire to express anger, sadness, frustration, or powerless feelings related to stress or major changes in their life
- May not understand the consequences of uncontrolled fire
- Will continue to set fires until needs are identified and met
- Also known as “crisis” or “cry for help” firesetters

Delinquent/Criminal

- Usually teens with a history of firesetting, truancy, antisocial behavior, or drug/alcohol abuse
- Fires are set with intent to destroy, or as acts of vandalism and malicious mischief
- Targets are typically schools, open fields, dumpsters, or abandoned buildings
- May involve restitution and criminal punishment if determined to be arson

Emotionally Disturbed

Psychiatric Diagnosis

- Fire may be random, ritualized, or with specific intent to destroy property (arson)
- Chronic history of school behavioral, social, emotional, or physical problems
- Boys or girls, all ages
- Set many fires
