Libraries Against Censorship
Banned Books Week: Banning Books Silences Stories, Sept. 23 - 29, 2018
By focusing on efforts across the country to remove or restrict access to books, Banned Books Week draws national attention to the harms of censorship. The books featured during Banned Books Week have all been targeted with removal or restrictions in libraries and schools. While books have been and continue to be banned, part of the Banned Books Week celebration is the fact that, in a majority of cases, the books have remained available. This happens only thanks to the efforts of librarians, teachers, students, and community members who stand up and speak out for the freedom to read.

Banned Books Week is an annual event celebrating the freedom to read. Typically held during the last week of September, it highlights the value of free and open access to information. Banned Books Week brings together the entire book community – librarians, booksellers, publishers, journalists, teachers, and readers of all types – in shared support of the freedom to seek and to express ideas, even those some consider unorthodox or unpopular.

About Book Bans and Challenges
Books are still being banned and challenged today. A challenge is an attempt to remove or restrict materials, based upon the objections of a person or group. A banning is the removal of those materials.

While books have been and continue to be banned, part of the Banned Books Week celebration is the fact that, in a majority of cases, the books have remained available. This happens only thanks to the efforts of librarians, teachers, students, and community members who stand up and speak out for the freedom to read. “Banned Books Week Press Kit”, American Library Association, July 11, 2011

Cover Crops and Winter Vegetables

Thursday, September 27, 6:30pm

The gardening season doesn’t end in October. Because we live in a ‘mild’ climate, we can continue to grow food throughout the winter. We can help our soil by planting crops to cover and enrich it.

Kris LaMar, our presenter this evening, has been an OSU Master Gardener since 2013. She has worked as a Facilitator for Oregon Food Bank “Seed to Supper” training since 2014.
Are You Two Weeks Ready? Disaster Preparedness

Are you prepared for an earthquake, wildfire, or other emergencies? Are you aware that the new recommendation is that you have a plan for home, work, travel, and school? Did you know that you need to be able to sustain yourself and your family for a minimum of 2 weeks? If you answered no to any of these questions you need this class.

Presenter Kim Yamashita is currently the City Manager and Emergency Operations Manager for the City of Sandy. She has been the Police Chief for the City of Sandy since she came to our community in April of 2010 after 17 years as a sergeant with the City of Washougal and a Patrol Officer with Vancouver (WA) Police Department.

You can now purchase your SAM fare at the library!
